

Today, on this Summer Monday:
God is the Creator of all! He adores you!

Gather your children together, and read, Psalm 139:13–15

“You made all the delicate, inner parts of my body and knit me together in my mother’s womb. Thank you for making me so wonderfully complex! Your workmanship is marvelous – how well I know it. You watched me as I was being formed in utter seclusion, as I was woven together in the dark of the womb.”

No matter what age, no matter what stage, their heart and their spirit will recognize the Words of Truth. Talk about the Truth of their own personal Elohim, Mighty Creator.

Application: Show them a copy of the ultrasound (if you have one) when they were in the womb. Talk about their tiny parts, their ears, their nose, their fingers and their toes. . . and the color of their eyes, and their hair, and even their freckles too. If you don’t have a copy of the ultrasound, remember that God’s Words are always enough. . . So they will know that they are wonderfully and miraculously made! And so are you!

Memory Verse:

“I praise you because you made me in an amazing and wonderful way.” Psalm 139:14 (International Children’s Bible– ICB)

Pray to your Creator and thank Him for the incredible detail and the incredible attention He gives to each one of us. . . thank Him for His perfect love!
